The image shows an industrial site, likely a water treatment plant. In the background, there is a large, horizontal, cylindrical metal tank with a corrugated surface. To the left of the tank, there are several vertical pipes and valves, some with handwheels. A metal railing runs across the middle ground. In the foreground, there is a concrete wall with a metal grate or screen. To the left of the wall, there are more pipes and a blue valve. The ground is paved with cobblestones. In the background, there is a grassy area and a fence.
